

Networking – Make It Awesome, Not Awkward

Class led by John Manka and Brock Goodwin

Love them or hate them, we all should be taking advantage of networking events. And all of us can be smarter and more strategic in how we make use of them! If you aren't getting the most out of networking events, come join this informal discussion. You will undoubtedly pick up some ideas you'll want to try that will make your next experience more productive, less stressful and maybe even fun.

The facilitators, Brock Goodwin and John Manka, will organize the discussion around preparing for the networking event, working the event, and following up after the event. They will share some great concepts and tips.

Go to the next networking event with confidence and a spring in your step. Walk out a few hours later having created some new business connections and opportunities!
